5 Annual Dale Tillery Institute
Date: Sunday, August 9th 2009 – Wednesday, August 12, 2009
Location: Berkley, CA

Description: As your college prepares to implement BSI, Berkeley's Tillery Institute will offer an additional opportunity to 1) engage in team planning using your college's data and, 2) understand how this data can drive your implementation strategies.

The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, which is working on strengthening pre-collegiate education in community colleges, is also a partner in this summer's Tillery Institute, sponsoring a kick-off talk by MacArthur "Genius" and math educator Uri Treisman.

The Tillery Institute is scheduled for Sunday evening, August 9, through Wednesday morning, August 12, on the Berkeley campus.

As in the past, you and your team of up to five members are invited to participate in the Tillery Institute, which will again be led by Bernadine Fong and Norton Grubb. The Institute will utilize the expertise of professional coaches and Cal-PASS staff experienced in working with colleges in the analysis and use of data in planning strategies to increase the success of basic skills students. Attached is a brief description of the Tillery Institute, draft agenda, and registration form.
