Chaffey College – Directed Learning Activities Tour
Date: Monday, July 27, 2008 from 1-3pm
Location: Rancho Cucamonga, CA

Description: Chaffey College’s Basic Skills Initiative has created a series of collaborative assignments called “Directed Learning Activities” between their learning centers and their academic departments. These assignments teach essential skills required for success in a targeted course, such as reading, writing, math, ESL, study and learning skills. These skills are all taught within the context of a targeted discipline while orienting students to academic support centers on campus. These Directed Learning Activities have enjoyed tremendous success and have gained state-wide recognition.

The folks at Chaffey College have invited Pierce College to come and see first hand how these assignments work. We are taking a team to view the facilities, see the assignments, and learn first-hand how the faculty worked collaboratively and creatively to create these vital learning tools.

Please rsvp if you would care to join us. We will carpool from Pierce College at 11:30am. If you are available to take people in your car, please let us know.
